Introduction

Night is the account of a young man (Elie) who must bear responsibility for his aged _____ and whose loss of a beloved parent wracks his spirit with terror, despair and regret.

One of the most gripping autobiographical ordeals in literature, it carries the reader into the hell of _____ perversity to the death camps intended to rid the German Reich of its _____.

Over eleven months—from _____ on May 16, 1944, to _____ in April 1945—Elie moves from _____ to Kaschau, Czechoslovakia and the reception center at Birkenau, Poland. Marched east to Buna, the electrical works at Auschwitz, Poland, he witnesses the worsening of his chances of survival as the hated “_____ of Auschwitz,” Dr. Josef Mengele, steps up the extermination of the unfit.
